Perry Klebahn

Consulting Associate Professor, Mechanical Engineering, Stanford University

Perry Klebahn is a true entrepreneur and innovator. He is also a natural teacher and a co-founding member of the faculty at the d.school. Perry currently teaches some of the d.school's core classes: Launchpad (a class that brings design thinking to Start Up's), d.leadership (a class that takes a select group of d.school students each year and trains them to lead innovation inside of organizations) and Design Thinking Boot Camps (short but intense programs that give students a full understanding of design thinking and how to apply it to their work), and is also the Director of the Executive Education program at the d.school.