FROM THE VICE CHANCELLOR

At the United Arab Emirates University (UAEU) we strive to strike a balance between innovation in modern education and research on one hand, and respect for our rich traditional cultural heritage on the other.

Since our very first graduation ceremony in 1981 of 192 male and 50 female students, we have seen our distinguished alumni hold important positions of leadership in the country, which reminds us that we have a great responsibility on our hands, that of forming and preparing the leaders of the future.

We have the expertise, the facilities and the significant local, regional and international partnerships to enable us to continue to produce fine leadership among our graduates, but we continuously seek to improve and invest in our resources to stay at the forefront of higher education and research.

We are proud of our ability as a comprehensive research institution to alchemize knowledge and research findings into concrete practical solutions to benefit society.

As an important contributor of knowledge and education, we are positioned to be a regional hub for, in particular, scientific, environmental, energy, and space research, and we enjoy collaborations with other institutions around the world to exchange ideas and findings in a variety of disciplines on a regular basis.

We prepare, inspire, support and encourage our students to strive for excellence throughout their academic journey, including the transition from school to university, and beyond, and our alumni programs ensure continued collaboration with the brightest minds of our generation.

In this way we work together to fulfill the vision of Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahyan when he founded our institution, which was to provide a world-class education to the young people of the UAE, to enable them to contribute to the economy, and find solutions to the challenges we face at the moment and in the future.

Vice Chancellor
United Arab Emirates University

GIVING BACK TO THE COMMUNITY

As the UAE's national university, UAEU recognizes the responsibility of the university and its graduates to contribute to the well-being of the broader community.

Community engagement and social responsibility describes how we make a difference to the social and economic well-being of our communities through teaching, research, public events and activities. Here is just a snapshot of some of the initiatives undertaken by the university.

Free Legal Advice Clinic

The College of Law established a legal clinic that has the dual purpose of training students while offering free legal consultations to the broader UAE community.

Fundraising for Charities at Home and Abroad

Every year UAEU holds a series of fundraising events to raise money for those less fortunate. This includes countries that have been affected by war and natural disasters, as well as other issues. Such campaigns have previously included an Eid Gift Day for orphaned children, a "Show Compassion Campaign" for Syrian refugees affected by war and displacement and also donating money to the local Red Crescent Association.

Community Based Volunteering

The university has a community based volunteering initiative (MADAD) where both students and members of the community can become volunteers and participate in some form of community service. Some of the past community based projects have included organizing blood donations, desert cleanup campaigns, volunteering in hospitals and special needs centers and assisting local charities.

Supporting Local Farmers

The Date Palm Unit provides support to local farmers by providing them with thousands of date palm plants every year in addition to conducting valuable research.

Schools Outreach Programs

The university places great emphasis on educating young people and providing support to local schools through various initiatives such as establishing a school garden manual to promote healthy eating, hosting summer programs such as ‘Sayfuna Mumayez’, with a focus on teaching English, ICDL, web design, robotics and social media. In addition UAEU hosts annual school based competitions such as “Innovation in IT” which aims to expand young minds and inculcate enthusiasm for information technology. Approximately 100 schools take part in this competition every year and there is a special effort made to involve students with special needs.

Assessment and Remedial Unit (ARU) for People with Disabilities

The university established a new Assessment and Remedial Unit (ARU) for students and other members of the community who are affected by some of the following conditions:

learning disabilities; sensory impairments; emotional disorders; mentally challenged; speech and language disorders and autism. The services provided include: counseling, assessment and remedial services and student training. The Unit also hosts a number of workshops, training seminars and conferences to raise awareness of special needs education.

Community Seminars and Workshops, Consultancy Services and Community Research

The university also hosts community seminars and workshops, provides consultancy services to public and private institutions and conducts community based research.
